Preface

In view of NCF 2005 and RTE – 2009, many far reaching changes have been carried out in the curriculum as well as the whole education system in Gujarat. While the focus of these changes has been on the fundamental concepts regarding the very process of education, the perceptible difference can be noticed in the new orientation given to the classroom interaction between the teacher and the learner as also among the learners themselves. This new orientation aims at promoting creativity, critical thinking and analytical abilities. In language education, particularly, this change of orientation can be noticed in the shift from predictable, content based comprehension and expression to constructive, meaningful interaction. This shift of focus requires the teacher to discourage memorisation of text based answers and encourage variation in response generated by authentic experiences in real life situations. This has been done by providing learning tasks in the form of activities rather than text based exercises.

We have also received valuable cooperation of H. M. Patel Institute of English Training and Research in this process. The textbook has been prepared in the light of constructive suggestions given by subject experts as well as practicing teachers. Care has been taken to retain the good elements that were tried and tested in the earlier textbooks, and new elements have been added in the light of the new orientation. Thus, efforts are made to prepare an error free and pedagogically effective textbook. However, we shall welcome constructive suggestions to improve the quality of the work.

With all good wishes.

INTRODUCTION

With the ever changing realities of the world and the needs of human life, our understanding of teaching learning process in general and English language teaching in particular requires a state of the art Insight Booster to make our practices more learning-generative, enjoyable and rewarding. Here are some core underpinnings and mechanics of this insight booster.

The human brain is hard-wired for learning multiple languages. Children are natural language acquirers; they are self-motivated to pick up the language without any conscious learning unlike adolescents and adults. They have the ability to imitate pronunciation and work out the rules for themselves. They use their innate language-learning strategies to acquire their mother tongue and soon find they can also use these strategies to pick up English. While facilitating our students to learn English, we need to understand the psychological needs of the children, the nature of how they learn everything in life in general and language in particular.

Learning for life is generally not linear or didactic. We human beings construct our own understanding and knowledge of the world, through experiencing things and reflecting on those experiences. When we encounter something new, we reconcile it with our previous ideas and experiences, may be changing what we believe in or may be discarding the new information as irrelevant. This is termed as Constructivist pedagogy. Constructivism taps into and triggers the students' innate curiosity about the world and how things work. Students do not reinvent the wheel but rather attempt to understand how it turns, how it functions. They become engaged by applying their existing knowledge and real-world experience, learning to hypothesize, testing their theories, and ultimately drawing conclusions from their findings. This theory proposes a radical change in the traditional view of teaching-learning.

In the constructivist classroom, the focus tends to shift from the teacher to the students. The classroom is no longer seen as a place where the teacher ("expert") pours knowledge into passive students who wait like empty vessels to be filled up. In the constructivist model, the students are motivated to be actively involved in their own process of learning. The teacher functions more as a facilitator who facilitates mediates, prompts and helps students develop and assess their understanding, and thereby checking their learning. Moreover, in the constructivist classroom, both teacher and students think of knowledge not as inert factoids to be memorized but as a dynamic, ever-changing view of the world we live in and the ability to successfully stretch and explore that view.

So, now we think of 'learning' as a process that is student active, contextualized, reflective and collaborative. Combining these theoretical concepts with the psychological needs of young learners and the principles of communicative approach, we may derive the following implications for our classroom practices :

- Students need to feel secure and to know that there are some obvious reasons for using English. Usage of the language is the only way to learn the language.
- Learning activities need to be linked with some interesting everyday activities about which they already know.
- Activities are accompanied by input language material to be read, serving as a foundation for the vocabulary, structural patterns and expressions to be used meaningfully in English.
- English sessions are funny and interesting, concentrating on concepts which children already understand in their mother tongue. [In this way children are not learning two things, a new concept as well as new language, but merely learning English to talk/write about something they already know.]
- Activities are backed up by specific contexts, games, creative activities wherever possible as this helps understanding and increases general interest as well as divergent thinking.
- While children are doing the tasks and activities, the quality of the produced language is evaluated in terms of its appropriateness and fluency not correctness. Thus, tolerating the errors of the children in the used language is expected. Mistakes need to be welcomed as testimony of learning.
- Collaboration encourages natural and meaningful communication. Activities done in groups and pairs become instrumental in natural language learning.
- Both silence and noise are parts of our day-to-day life. Activities requiring think-time, trigger constructive silence and activities requiring dialogues, inquiry, sharing, reporting and narration trigger creative noise.

Thus, facilitation in learning of English goes beyond memorising facts of the content or mastering the structure of grammar. It requires us to create an environment like a music class where nothing is passive, pre-planned, linear and lop-sided.

THE FADING GLORY OF THE EARTH

Long, long ago, the Earth was green and clean. It proudly carried and nurtured a number of trees. But after some time, someone invented machines to make life comfortable. The machines were used and liked by many. However, we now realise that the Earth gets warmer and has less natural beauty. The Sun's rays reach the Earth easily and damage her beauty. This has also led to change in flora and fauna.

Today, toxic materials are found everywhere. The pollutants are in the air, water and land.

Did you know?

- The temperature of the Earth is increasing every year.
- The amount of rainfall is getting less.
- Water is going to be more and more expensive in future.
- The increase in temperature kills many life forms. Many animals and birds are getting extinct.

ACTIVITY - 2

Read and discuss the points about the Past and Present conditions of the Earth's natural beauty. Predict the future of the Earth working in groups and complete the third column.

PAST The Earth was....	PRESENT The Earth is...	FUTURE The Earth will be...
Green More trees	Green Less trees
Blue Ample water	Blue Polluted and less water
Brown Clean Land	Brown Unclean/ polluted Land
Red Colourful flowers	Red Less flowers
Yellow Pleasant rays of sun reached the Earth	Yellow IRRITATING rays of the sun reach the Earth and cause harm to life on Earth

Have you completed the above table? If yes, share your responses with your teacher and elders at home. Let us learn more about our Mother Earth's condition in the following passage.

ACTIVITY - 3THE FADING GLORY OF THE EARTH

Most toxic waste comes from man-made things like mobile sources (e.g. cars, trucks, buses), stationary sources (e.g. factories, refineries, power plants), as well as indoor sources (e.g. some building materials and chemicals used for cleaning). The amount of pollution is increasing day by day and this has led to the depletion of resources on the Earth. In other words, we can say that the health of the Earth and its life forms do not appear to be too good.

Did you know?

People are exposed to toxic air pollutants in many ways that can pose health risks, such as :

- Breathing contaminated air
- Eating contaminated food products
- Drinking water contaminated by toxic waste

THE FADING GLORY OF THE EARTH

The Earth Day is celebrated on 22nd April. It was one of the first attempts to make people aware of the Earth's depleting environmental resources and increasing pollution levels. The celebration of Earth Day in 1992 was made memorable by an international conference held in Brazil. The leaders of many countries attended this event and it led to a new movement to preserve the Earth's resources in both - big and small ways.

People across the World take up a number of activities like tree plantation, awareness camps on environment related topics, pollution reduction camps and many more. So, we can say that the World Earth Day is a time for people around the globe to support the environmental protection movement.

Up into the Banyan tree
Who should climb but little me?
I held the trunk with both my hands
And looked around all nearby lands.

I saw the next-door garden lie,
Full of flowers, before my eye,
And many pleasant faces more
That I had never seen before.

I saw the dimpling river pass
And be the sky's blue looking-glass;
The dust roads go up and down
With people tramping in to town.

If I could find a higher tree
Farther and Farther I should see,
To where the grown-up river slips
Into the sea among the ships,

To where the roads on either hand
Lead onward into fairy land,
Where all the children dine at five,
And all the playthings come alive.

UNIT-2Scientists and Inventions*ACTIVITY - 1*PART 1: FAMOUS INDIAN SCIENTISTS

Curiosity is said to be the Mother of Invention. Scientists are curious to know and explore different things and processes around them. We enjoy all the comforts of knowledge as well as life today. This would have not been possible without the efforts and success of numerous scientific inventions.

Some of the famous scientists of India are Aryabhatta, Chanakya, C.V.Raman, APJ Abdul Kalam, C.R.Rao, Vikram Sarabhai, Homi Bhabha and many more.

* Let us read more about some of the famous Indian Scientists.

- Vikram Sarabhai was born in Ahmedabad on 12th August 1919 in a Jain family. The establishment of the Indian Space Research Organization (ISRO) was one of his greatest achievements. He also supported Dr. Homi Bhabha in setting up the first rocket launching station in India.
- Dr. Homi Jehangir Bhabha, widely regarded as the father of India's nuclear science programme. He was an Indian nuclear physicist, founding director, and professor of physics at the Tata Institute of Fundamental Research.
- Aryabhatta was an Indian mathematician and astronomer. He gave the concept of Zero and the place value system in Math.
- Sir Chandrasekhara Venkata Rāman was an Indian physicist. He was awarded the Nobel Prize for Physics in 1930 for his discovery in Physics known as the Raman Effect.

ACTIVITY - 3

Observe the following picture and discuss in groups and find the answers to the questions related to the picture.

- Are the children curious? What makes you say so?

PART 2 : FAMOUS DISCOVERIES AND INVENTIONS

Archimedes was a Greek scientist. He lived in Syracuse nearly 2000 years ago. The King of the land wanted to wear a Golden Crown. He gave some gold to a goldsmith to make a suitable crown. After a few days, the goldsmith came with the crown to the King. The crown was weighed. The weight of the crown was equal to the gold given to the goldsmith by the King. The King looked at the color of the crown. He suspected that the goldsmith had stolen some gold. But the king was not sure. The King wanted to find out the truth. He asked his court scientist Archimedes to find out. The King said, "Find out how much gold has been stolen?" How to find out the truth? Archimedes thought about the problem day and night. One day he was about to have his bath, but he was busy thinking. He did not notice the bathtub. The water in the bathtub was already full to the brim. He slid into the bathtub. Immediately a large quantity of water flowed over the brim of the bath tub. He noticed this. Suddenly, there was a flash in his mind. He jumped out of the bathtub, shouting, "Eureka! Eureka!" Eureka in Greek means "I have found it."

Thus, it was found that different metals of the same weight have different volumes. Objects, put in water, will displace water. The displaced water will be equal to their volume.

ACTIVITY - 4

Observe the above picture and narrate the Eureka story to your friends in groups. Write approximately seven sentences that convey the essence / meaning of the story. Write the same in the space below.

UNIT-3Birthday Gift Boat*ACTIVITY - 1

How many trees do you find in this picture? _____

How many birds are there in this picture? _____

What is the colour of the boat?

ACTIVITY - 2*BIRTHDAY GIFT

Jia's father gave her a little boat as a birthday gift. It was a beautiful red boat with a milk-white sail. Jia wound it up. And it sailed in the big bath-tub filled with water.

Jia was excited. She called her friend Dhruv and showed him the boat. "It is a beautiful boat. But does it really sail?" asked Dhruv. "Of course!" Jia said. She slowly wound the key and put the boat in the bath-tub. With a whirr the boat set off, going round and round, creating ripples. "May I sail the boat just once?" asked Dhruv.

"No!" Jia quickly replied. "You will spoil my lovely boat!" Dhruv was hurt. He went home. He stopped going to Jia's house. But she did not care. She had her little red boat to play with. She spent most of her time near the bath tub. She watched the boat sailing and was happy. After a few days, she began to get bored. It was no fun playing with the boat all by herself. She wished Dhruv would play with her again.

Key Words :

to be excited – to become eager or happy ripples – small waves or series of waves on the surface of water to rush – to move quickly stream – a small river

One day, Jia was sitting by the window. Her mother had shut the window because it was raining. Pitter... patter... the rain fell on the closed window. Then Jia heard a song, “Come, come children,

with your boats and play,

I will take your boats far,
far away!”

It was the wind singing to the children.

In a little while the rain stopped. Jia looked out of the window. All the children had rushed out to put their paper-boats in a stream by the road. There were pink boats and white boats, big boats and little boats. They rose and fell with the tiny waves. The weak boats overturned and sank while the strong ones sailed on.

'I will take my boat too,' thought Jia. She washed her boat. It became bright and shiny. She went up to the stream. She wound the key and carefully put the boat in water. 'Whirr, whirr,' it went quickly. It left all the paper – boats behind. She looked proudly at the other children “Look at my boat,” she clapped.

Suddenly, a piece of wood banged into Jia's boat. And it broke into pieces. She sat down and cried. “Don't worry. You shall play with my boat!” She looked up. Dhruv was holding a red boat in his hand; It was just like Jia's boat.

“Papa bought it for me,” Dhruv explained. “Come, let us sail it in the bath-tub.” Jia smiled. They were friends again.

When he awoke he was alone. Rip looked for his gun. To his surprise it was covered in rust ! Feeling confused and hungry, Rip headed for his village.

When he reached there, people gathered around him staring at his tattered clothes and long grey beard. Rip saw a young woman who looked like his wife. He asked her who she was. She told him her name and said her father had left the house twenty years ago with his dog and had never been seen again.

UNIT-6The Girl with Magic Eyes*ACTIVITY - 1

Look at the picture and read the story. Do the activities mentioned in the boxes.

PART-1 THE GIRL WITH MAGIC EYES

Devi and Riya were very close friends. They spent a lot of time together. In the class they sat together, during lunch time they ate together and in the evenings they played together. They shared everything. There was no secret between them.

Answer the questions.

1. Who is your dearest friend ?

2. What are the things you do together ?

One day when Devi was going home after playing with Riya, she met a strange man just outside her house. The man looked tired. He asked Devi - "My child, can you give me some water ?" Devi looked at him and was slightly scared. The man looked frightening with his long beard and torn clothes. He had black eyes which seemed to hold her. She looked at him for a few seconds without saying anything.

The man again said, "Dear child, please give me water. I'm very thirsty." Devi shivered as she listened to his voice. Slowly she checked her bag. Her water bottle was in the bag and it was full. Nervously, she held it out to him and said, "Here you are!" He almost snatched the water bottle and drank all the water in seconds.

Key Words :

frightening – terrifying
shivered – shake slightly as a result of being frightened

3. How do you think the man might have looked?

The man returned the water bottle to her and said, "Thank you, dear. You are an angel. Why don't you ask me for something ? I can give you anything you want." Devi said, "Ask you for something ? Why should I ? I don't want anything." The man said, "Come on child. Don't waste my time. I'm a very busy person, you know. Be quick. Think of something you want. I can give you anything you ask for."

4. Suppose you were Devi what would you ask for ?

I would ask for _____

Devi was surprised. She wondered. If he could give anything she wants why did he ask her for water. But she was too scared to ask him about that. She said, "I don't think I need anything. My mother has told me not to take anything from a stranger. Besides I don't want to ask for anything in return for the water I gave you."

The man looked happy. He said, "Very well. You're a well behaved child who remembers her mother's words. You also have a helping nature. So I'm going to give you magic eyes."

Devi said, "Magic eyes ? I have never heard of any magic eyes."

The man smiled and said, "Well, you have them now." As soon as he said this, he disappeared. Devi was stunned. She just stood there like a statue for a few moments. Then she ran towards her house.

What do you think will happen next? Talk to your friend and share your ideas with the whole class.

ACTIVITY - 2

PART-2 THE GIRL WITH MAGIC EYES

Devi reached the house and rang the doorbell till her mother opened the door. As soon as she saw her mother, she threw away her bag and hugged her tightly. Her mother was surprised. She said, "What happened Devi ? Any problem ? Calm down and tell me."

Devi said, " I have got magic eyes."

"What ? What do you mean by magic eyes ?" said her mother.

"I don't know. I met a stranger near our house. He asked for water and I gave it to him. He has given me magic eyes."

Her mother looked worried. "I don't know what you are talking about. Haven't I asked you not to talk to strangers ? How can somebody give you magic eyes ? Your eyes look the same to me. I don't see any magic in them."

Devi didn't say anything. She played for sometime, watched TV, did her homework, had her dinner and went to bed. She had a strange dream that night.

She saw two beautiful, huge eyes in front of her. The eyes were blue like the sea. She could see the whole city inside the eyes. She entered into the eyes and started walking through a street. She saw a shop full of chocolates and biscuits. Her mouth started watering. She said, "Please come to me, chocolates."

As she kept on looking at the chocolates, a ray of light came out of her eyes and touched the chocolates. Immediately, they started floating in the air and came towards her. She caught the chocolates and dropped them in her bag. She made a mountain of chocolates and sat on top of them.

It touched the tooth brush, lifted it gently and moved it towards her. The brush almost started brushing her. She caught hold of it and looked at it in shock. She brushed her teeth, washed her face and looked at the towel. Then she thought, 'Let me try once more.' She said, "Please come to me, Towel." This time when the light touched the towel and sent it flying towards her, she was ready to catch it. She ran to her mother and said, "Mummy, mummy look at my magic eyes." Before her mother could understand what she was saying, a number of things were floating in the air in the kitchen.

What things do you think were floating in the kitchen ? What do you think Devi might have said to get them to come to her ?

Her mother ran out of the room and woke up her father. Devi ran to the telephone and called her friend Riya. Devi said, "Riya, I have got magic eyes." Riya couldn't understand anything. She said, "Magic eyes ? What do you mean ?" Devi said, "Please come to my house immediately. Let's walk to school together and I'll show you." As both of them walked to school, Devi showed Riya what she could do with her magic eyes.

They were very excited by the time they reached the school. The teacher came in and started writing the topic of the day on the blackboard. Riya saw Atul, sitting in front of her making a paper rocket and throwing it at a boy in the first row. Riya nudged Devi who just looked at the rocket and said, "Please come to Atul."

To everyone's surprise, the rocket made a U-turn before it could reach the boy in the first row and darted towards Atul. Atul was in great shock. He tried to duck but the rocket hit him on the forehead. The teacher turned back and said,

"Atul, how many times I have warned you not to play mischief in class? This time I'm going to punish you. Write a one page report about this incident and make a presentation in the assembly tomorrow." As Atul said, "Oh, no !" Riya and Devi giggled hiding behind their notebooks.

During lunch time they sat under a tree in the school playground and opened their lunch boxes. Suddenly Devi heard some strange sounds near her. She looked around and found a couple of baby birds. They were bulbuls which had fallen from their nests. Devi gently lifted them with her eyes and said, "Go back to your nest." The birds safely landed in their nests and their mother chirped happily and hugged them. On the way home Devi saw the strange man again. He came straight to Devi and said, "Dear child, I gave you magic eyes. You have not misused them. You have used them for good purposes. So I am happy with you and I want to give you one more boon. What would you like to have?" Devi said, "Whatever you want to give, please give it to my friend Riya." The man was happy to hear this and he said, "Riya, you are lucky to have a friend like Devi. I give you the power to go anywhere you want. You close your eyes and think of a place and you will be there. You can hold Devi's hand and take her also there with you." The man disappeared. Both Devi and Riya were very happy. The first thing they did was to hold each other's hands, closed their eyes and thought of.....

Where do you think Devi and Riya wanted to go? Now both of them had magic powers. How do you think they would have used them?

He walked alone and he sang:

I am very old, you see,
No one cares at all for me,
I have no home or house to go.
What will I do? I do not know.

As he walked along, an idea came to his head. "I know what I can do! I can go to Toon Toon Town and become a musician!" So he walked along. A little later, he saw an old dog asleep on the side of the road. "What's wrong my friend?" asked the Donkey. My master has thrown me out as I am old and slightly deaf," said the Dog sadly. And he sang:

I am very old, you see,
No one cares at all for me,
I have no home or house to go.

I am very old, you see,
 No one cares at all for me,
 I have no home or house to go.
 What will I do? I do not know.

“Why don’t you come with us to Toon Toon Town to become a musician?” said the Donkey. “Thank you !” said the Cat and joined them. So they walked along together. A little later, they saw an old Rooster on the road. “What are you doing here alone, my friend? Why are you not on your farm?” asked the Donkey. “My master has thrown me out as I oversleep and cannot get up in the morning,” said the Rooster. And he sang,

I am very old, you see,
No one cares at all for me,
I have no home or house to go.
What will I do? I do not know.

“Come and sing with us. We are going to Toon Toon Town to become musicians,” said the Donkey. “I would love to !” said the Rooster and so off they went altogether.

Soon it became dark. They entered a forest and suddenly saw a house. They went near and peeped inside. They saw four robbers sitting by fire and eating nice hot food. "Let's think of a plan," said the Donkey. So together they thought of a plan. Then they got into position and the Donkey counted "one, two, three...NOW !" They all sang as loud as they could. The Donkey brayed, the Dog barked, the Cat meowed and the Rooster crowed. Then they rushed into the house. CRASH ! BOOM ! One robber saw the Cat's eyes and yelled, "Run ! There are two balls of fire !" The Dog bit a robber and he yelled, "Run ! There is someone with a knife !" The Donkey kicked a robber and he yelled, "Run ! There is a ghost who has thrown me over !" The Rooster crowed "Cock-a-doodle-do" and the fourth robber said, "Run ! Someone is saying, 'I will show you what I'll do' !" and so saying all four robbers ran shouting out of the house. "I'll sleep by the fire," purred the Cat. "I'll sleep under the table," said the Dog. "I'll sleep in the barn," said the Donkey. "I'll sleep on the roof," said the Rooster. And so they remained in this house and often sang together. They went later to Toon Toon Town and even gave concerts.

MOHAN DID NOT COPY

What made Mohandas Gandhi a 'Mahatma'? Well, he had many qualities. He loved truth; he practised truth. This made him great.

He watched his own actions. He always asked himself, “Is my action right or wrong? Is it good or bad?” Did he do this from childhood? Yes, he did.

Mohan was a student in Rajkot. He did not always stand first in his class. But he was always honest. Once the school had its annual inspection. The inspector went round all the classes. He also went to class V. Mohan was a student in that class. It was an English class. The inspector gave a spelling test. He dictated ten words. One word was ‘kettle’. Mohan did not know the spelling of this word. He spelt the word wrongly. The teacher saw the wrong spelling in Mohan’s slate. He made a sign to Mohan ‘Copy the word from the neighbour’s.’ Did Mohan understand the sign? Yes, he did. Did he copy the word? No, he didn’t.

After some time, the inspector left. The teacher was angry. The teacher said to Mohan "I made a sign to you, but you did not understand." The other students laughed at him, but Mohan was not sorry. Mohan was honest. He did not cheat himself or the others. Perhaps this made him a Mahatma.

ACTIVITY - 3

Discuss and share the following questions with your teacher and classmates.

ACTIVITY - 6

I - One day Gandhiji and Vallabhbhai Patel were talking in the jail, when Gandhiji remarked, "At times even a dead snake can be of use." And he related the following story to illustrate his point:

Once a snake entered the house of an old woman. The old woman was frightened and cried out for help. Hearing her, the neighbours rushed up and killed the snake. Then they returned to their homes. Instead of throwing the dead snake far away, the old woman flung it onto her roof.

Sometime later a kite flying overhead spotted the dead snake. In its beak the kite had a pearl necklace which it had picked up from somewhere. It dropped the necklace and flew away with the dead snake.

When the old woman saw a bright, shining object on her roof, she pulled it down with a pole. Finding that it was a pearl necklace, she danced with joy!

II - When Gandhiji finished his story, Vallabhbhai Patel said he too had a story to tell:

One day a Bania found a snake in his house. He couldn't find anyone to kill it for him and hadn't the courage to kill it himself. Besides, he hated killing any living creature. So he covered the snake with a pot and left it there.

As luck would have it, that night some thieves broke into the Bania's house. They entered the kitchen and saw the overturned pot. "Ah," they thought, "the Bania has hidden something valuable here." As they lifted the pot, the snake stung. (All of them ran for their lives.)

ACTIVITY - 7

Give students enough time to read both the stories and think about two questions given above.

ACTIVITY - 8

Read and enjoy.

Children loved visiting Gandhiji. A little boy who was there one day, was greatly distressed to see the way Gandhiji was dressed. Such a great man yet he doesn't even wear a shirt, he wondered.

"Why don't you wear a kurta, Gandhiji?" the little boy couldn't help asking him finally.

"Where's the money, son?" Gandhiji asked gently. "I am very poor. I can't afford a kurta."

The boy's heart was filled with pity.

"My mother sews well", he said. "She makes all my clothes. I'll ask her to sew a Kurta for you."

"How many Kurtas can your mother make?" Gandhiji asked.

"How many do you need?" asked the boy. "One, two, three.... she'll make as many as you want."

Gandhiji thought for a moment. Then he said, "But I am not alone, son. It wouldn't be right for me to be the only one to wear a kurta."

"How many Kurtas do you need?" the boy persisted. "I'll ask my mother to make as many as you want. Just tell me how many you need."

"I have a very large family, son. I have forty crore brothers and sisters," Gandhiji explained.

"Till every one of them has no kurta to wear, how can I wear one? Tell me, can your mother make kurtas for all of them?"

At this question the boy became very thoughtful. Forty crore brothers and sisters! Gandhiji was right.

Till every one of them had no kurta to wear how could he wear one himself? After all the entire nation was Gandhiji's family, and he was the head of that family. He was their friend and companion. What use would one kurta be to him?

ACTIVITY - 6Read and enjoy the story.

Dear friends, here is a story about Simba, the lion and the wind. This story is how Simba saved non-renewable energy (e.g. petrol) by introducing renewable energy (e.g. Wind).

THE LION AND THE WIND

There was once a very special lion called Simba who lived on the African savannah. Simba would play in the plains, running and jumping with his friends the leopards and the other lions in the area. Simba had a very special gift, for every time he roared he created such a strong wind, it seemed like a hurricane.

On the savannah, where Simba lived, there were a lot of different kinds of animals: giraffes, elephants, hyenas, etc. and even though it wasn't a particularly green place, there were lots of species of trees and plants.

One day, as Simba was playing with his friends, they saw enormous machines destroying a part of the plain by digging into the earth. "The humans are building oil wells..." said one of the wisest lions.

Day by day, the men built more and more oil wells, destroying nature in the process.

Simba had fewer and fewer friends to play with and fewer plains in which to run about, and he knew that it was the men that were causing it all.

So he decided to ask the wisest lion in the area for a solution. The wise old lion said: "The only solution is for the men to stop using petrol, and use renewable energies such as wind instead..."

That gave Simba an idea, and he decided to help one of the most powerful renewable energies in the world: wind power. So he went round all the countries in the world roaring with all his might to create a great wind that would help men use more renewable energy. In the end, Simba succeeded in getting mankind to stop using petrol, and the African savannah recovered completely.

Now let's know more about Renewable and Non-renewable energy.

Difference between Renewable and Non-renewable energy.

Renewable energy sources are ones which don't run out - which can be renewed. We can keep using them and we'll never run out forever. Examples of renewable sources include wind, water power (hydroelectric), and solar power (light from the sun).

Non-renewable energy sources are ones which are limited. As we use them to generate energy, they get used up, and can't be used a second time. There are three main non-renewable energy sources, which are running out fast : coal, oil and natural gas.

ACTIVITY - 7

Discuss the following questions with your teachers and classmates.

1. Who was Simba? Where did he live?
2. What was Simba's special gift ?
3. What did Simba see when he was playing with his friends?
4. Who were causing problem for Simba and his friends? Why?
5. What did Simba do to recover the savannah?

What is your favourite dish?

B) Identify the following vegetables and fruits.

ACTIVITY - 2

Now listen to the Part-1 of the story as your teacher reads.

Part - 1 A BOY WHO HATED VEGETABLES!

Jeet was very fond of chocolates. He also loved the tasty dishes his mother made. However, he would never eat any vegetable. His mother would get angry - but for any vegetable dish Jeet would always say a loudly "NO!"

He did not like to eat any vegetable. Name any vegetable and Jeet would turn his face away. He would not look at even carrot (gajar) halwa topped with nuts and raisins.

Jeet's father and mother would get very angry. But all the vegetables would feel more angry and hurt. "Jeet does not like me. I also do not like him," growled Mr. Potato, one day.

"See how he hates me!" cried Carrot Tops angrily. "I would like to spank the fellow!" said Miss Bhindi. "And I know how to deal with this stubborn boy!" Mr. Karela said with a naughty smile. By the time dinner was ready, all the vegetables had worked out their plan.

Jeet was fond of pizza. When the pizza was brought to the table, he greedily put a piece of pizza in his mouth. "Oh! This pizza is bitter!" he cried. He did not know that Mr. Karela had squeezed his juice on his plate.

Jeet put a piece of chocolate biscuit cake into his mouth. He found it so salty that he could not swallow it. "The chocolate biscuit cake is salty, Mummy!"

But his mother and father did not believe him. All he got was a spanking for being such a grumpy boy. Jeet remained hungry. In the middle of the night, Jeet crept hungrily to the fridge. He took out a slab of chocolate and took a big bite. But his tongue burnt because the vegetables had rubbed chilies on the chocolate.

His mouth burnt, Jeet turned to a big bowl of gajar halwa. He put a spoonful into his mouth. “Aha!” The halwa tested so sweet and nice! He took another spoonful and then another. It surprised him that gajar halwa could be so tasty. And he had always refused to eat it! He liked it so much that he ate up all the halwa in the bowl.

Next morning, Jeet’s mother opened the fridge to take out milk for making tea. She found the bowl of gajar halwa empty. “Who has eaten the gajar halwa?” she asked.

“I ate it, Mummy!” Jeet said.

“You! You hate vegetables, don’t you?” “Yes, Mummy, I did hate vegetables. But I don’t any more!”

Jeet’s mother was happy. “Good boy,” she said and hugged him.

UNIT-11The Wonderful World

Have you ever thought of the beautiful world around us? A number of poets, philosophers and many others have discovered the secrets of nature and wisdom that spellbound us. There are some things in the environment that appeal to all of us...

THE QUEEN OF FLOWERS

There are a number of flowers that we see around us. One of them is the Rose. It has been a symbol of love, dedication, divine affection, respect and so on. Roses are also called the divas of our garden. They add beauty and brightness to the environment.

Have we ever wondered about a life without flowers and colours?

There are more than 100 species of roses around us. The name 'rose' comes from the latin word 'rosa'. Roses are valued for their sweet fragrance, medicinal value, ornamental and decorative value.

Can we try to be budding poets writers and poets and write a few lines to describe the rose?

ACTIVITY - 1

Write a few lines to describe a rose

Helpline

Take various pictures of roses to the class and encourage students to build and collect sufficient vocabulary to describe a rose.

THE KING OF RAINS

There are a number of factors that lead to rain. However, black clouds are commonly considered as a sign of rains. Clouds in the sky are of different colours ... black , blue, white and grey. They add beauty to our environment, don't they?

Have we ever wondered how clouds can be identified...? Let us read the following lines to know a few types of clouds.

'Cirrus Clouds' look like a curl of hair while 'Stratus clouds' look like straight lines in the sky. The 'Nimbus Clouds' are clouds of rain. Let us look at a picture of the Nimbus cloud.

Since Nimbus clouds are dense with water, they appear darker than other clouds. Nimbus clouds are formed at low heights (altitudes) and are typically spread uniformly across the sky. The Nimbus clouds bring rain to us.

Let us read this poem.

RAIN

How beautiful is the rain!
After the dust and heat,
In the broad and fiery street,
In the narrow lane,

How beautiful is the rain!
How it clatters along the roofs
Like the tramp of hoofs!
How it gushes and struggles out

From the throat of the overflowing spout!

Across the window-pane
It pours and pours;
And swift and wide,

With a muddy tide,
Like a river down the gutter roars
The rain, the welcome rain!

Helpline

Make the students recite the poem. Encourage them to practice recitation.

ACTIVITY - 2

Answer the following questions based on the above poem.

1. Why do you think people welcome the rain ?

2. What are the sounds produced by the rain?

3. You may think of writing a paragraph on the rainy season

Helpline

Encourage students to construct more questions related to rain, nature, natural calamities, etc.

ACTIVITY - 3

Look out of the window and identify a cloud. Now, make an attempt to describe and draw the cloud.

Observe a cloud and draw the same as well as colour it ...

TWINKLE TWINKLE LITTLE STARS

We see the stars as tiny points of light in the sky. They may all look the same but they are not. They range in size, color, temperature, power, and life spans. Stars are made of mostly hydrogen, which is the most abundant element in the universe.

We all have learnt the rhyme : Twinkle twinkle little star... Have we ever wondered where the star light comes from? Let us find it out Stars get their light from the Sun. There are chemical reactions that give light and shine to the stars.

Helpline

Encourage students to draw different types of clouds and describe each type of cloud in approximately 50 words.

This image shows a single sheet of white paper with horizontal blue ruling lines. The lines are evenly spaced and run across the width of the page. There are approximately 20 lines visible. The paper has a slight shadow on the right side, suggesting it's resting on a surface.

It has been said that counting the stars in the Universe is like trying to count the number of sand grains on a beach on Earth. We might do that by measuring the surface area of the beach, and determining the average depth of the sand layer.

Did you know?

In 1995, an image from the Hubble Space Telescope (HST) suggested that star formation had reached a peak at roughly seven thousand million years ago. The picture shows a satellite mapping of our milky way.

I may not find a place in your garland, but honour it with a

An Innovative Scientist Thomas Alva Edison

Edison was born in Ohio in the USA in 1847. At school his teacher thought his ideas were crazy and that he might have a learning difficulty. After that, his mother taught him at home. He was full of curiosity and she encouraged him to learn things for himself. He made working models of a steam engine and steam-powered sawmill, and experimented with chemicals.

Edison's favourite invention was the phonograph. He regarded it as a toy, and designed toys that used the device, including talking dolls and children's pianos. He improved (up on) it so that it could record and play music.

Edison also improved the telephone system that had been invented by Alexander Graham Bell. He also invented electric bell. This was one of his major invention. While he was trying to invent electric bulb he failed a number of times but did not give up.

Another Edison invention was the Kinetoscope, a box containing a strip of photographs. When one looked into the box while the strip was moved, the objects in the photos appeared to be moving.

Edison made many other inventions.

ACTIVITY -3

Read the following story.

GULLIVER IN THE GIANT'S LAND

I am Gulliver, a sailor. I have visited many strange islands. Once I visited an island of dwarfs called Liliput. I was a giant among the liliputians. Then I landed on an island of giants where I was a dwarf.

Let me tell you about my experience about the island of giants.

I was trying to find a gap in the hedge when I discovered one of the giants in the next field walking towards the fence. I was struck with fear and ran to hide myself. He called in a voice much louder than a trumpet. It sounded like thunder! Seven monsters like him came towards the field ready to reap the corn. They carried a reaping hook which was very big. When one of the reapers approached where I lay hidden I screamed as loud as I could. The creature stopped reaping, picked me up between his thumb and forefinger and brought me close to his eyes, sixty feet above the ground. He looked at me with curiosity and blew my hair aside to get a better view of my face.

He called his friends and gently placed me on the ground.

The all sat on the ground to take a good look at me. I walked slowly backward and forward, pulled off my hat and made a low bow towards the farmers. I tried to speak to them loudly in several languages. Each time I did so the farmer who picked me up held his ear very close to me but in vain. The farmer took me to his house and placed me at some distance on the dining table which was thirty feet high from the floor.

Dinner was brought for the farmer in a dish which was ten feet in diameter. The farmer's wife crumbled some bread and placed it before me. In the middle of the dinner I heard a noise behind me. It was the purring of a cat that was ten times larger than an ox. The farmer's wife was stroking him. Then entered the farmer's one year-old son in the arms of a lady. On seeing me the child grabbed me from the table and put my head into his mouth. I shouted so loudly that the baby dropped me. I would have broken my neck if the mother had not held her apron under me.

Later she put me on her own bed and covered me with a clean white handkerchief.

I slept dreaming of my home, my wife and my children.

ACTIVITY - 8Read this.*WHY ANIMALS SPIT?

Spit keeps our mouths moist and softens our food when we chew. Without spit in our mouths, we would have a hard time talking. We would find it even harder to swallow. But for some animals, spit works better after it has left the mouth. Some animals are experts at surviving because they are expert spitters.

Llamas are animals often found in petting zoos and farms. These animals seem to like their personal space. A llama that feels threatened or annoyed will spit slimy gobs at you to get you to leave it alone.

Sometimes llamas even spit on each other to steal food! This trick usually works, because a llama's spit includes food from the llama's stomach, and it can be quite smelly. When a llama spits on another animal, the animal usually loses its appetite and walks away, leaving its food behind.

Spitting cobras are also known for their expert aim. These snakes spray poisonous venom from their fangs to protect themselves. Scientists believe that these snakes actually aim for the eyes! When a cobra's venom gets into the eyes of an animal, the venom causes terrible pain, and even blindness. This gives the snake plenty of time to get away.

Spitting is considered to be rude behavior in people. But for some animals, spitting can be a smart way to get lunch –or a clever way to avoid becoming lunch!

Answer these questions.

Why does a cobra spit?

Why should human setups avoid spitting in public places?

Find information about other animals that use their spit in different ways !
